SATURDAY, JULY 24, 1980.

It will be observed that the "Grand Conference" is to be held in Sydney in September. The presumption is that an organized effort is to be made to bring pressure to bear upon candidates at the general election. We have seen in the present Parliament that mention the name of the free selectors was sufficient to make the knees of many members tremble. It was the fear of the free selector that strangled the wool duty and stock tax; and if that fear has had a negative influence, it may also exert a positive one. Let this Conference be held on the eve of the general election, and the question to candidates will be not simply "Will you never consent to the passing of a stock and wool tax," but "Will you, faithfully promise to let the free selector escape from the discharge of his obligations to the country?" At the recent dinner at Bathurst Sir HENRY PARKES and Mr. WISDOM were impressive in their advice to the electors to require all candidates to state their opinions plainly, and without equivocation. The advice was sound; but the plainness of speech to be demanded ought to have reference to a variety of questions. It should not be enough for a candidate to say that he risk of taking from many students the stimulus to pursue their studies. Taken all together, we are forced to look upon it as the lesser evil to give the degree on the examination test. The University will always have its attractions to the better class of students. The teaching there will always be cheaper and always better than what can be obtained elsewhere, while the pleasure and prestige of class attendance cannot fail to carry weight with young men, and the chances of successfully passing will always be in favour of those who have had the best preparation. The University would not cease to be a teaching body and would not drift into a mere examining Board because it gave its degrees impartially alike to those who had gained their knowledge at the University, and to those who had gained it elsewhere. To suppose this would be to suppose that the University teaching is less efficient and less attractive than what could be gained outside, and to believe that would be heresy of the first order.

There is one way in which the University might, perhaps, do more than at present to attract and attach law students to itself, and that is by making the law degree

"It's an ill wind that blows nobody good," as the destruction of the Victoria Theatre by fire will not have happened in vain if it shall enforce attention to some matters in connection with fire and their suppression in Sydney which have been neglected. One of the first ideas that suggested itself on reading the account of the catastrophe was that the cause of the loss of life was that no alarm had been given while the fire broke out within the theatre. The means of exit were miserably inadequate to the demands of an emergency, and a panic-stricken audience would have found it difficult to get out.

But, there is any public building in Sydney which satisfactory provision has been made for sudden rush outwards! The next thing is the want of a sufficient available supply of water. It is not enough to have a greater pressure than ordinary on the water supply, but a sufficient abundance for all the engines that can be brought into play simultaneously. Then there is the statement that there was an absence of organized and systematic action amongst the firemen; so there will always be until the firemen are as much under subordination, authority, and discipline as the soldiers of the army, and the firemen are well-drilled and well-governed force, under the direction of competent officers; and then there would be chance of having the right thing done at the right moment, with the minimum of hurry and confusion. Fortunately there was no wind on Thursday night, and the fire was not so great as to be out of control, and fire from spreading; but under less favourable conditions, the only chance of arresting a great fire lies in the systematic employment of well-vised methods, and there is little hope of that without skill, organization, and discipline. The citizens would be better off if the fire authorities were provided with funds by a fire-brigade rate, by establishing a system of universal and compulsory fire-insurance under their management.

Mr. ALFRED STUART addressed the electors at the Club on Thursday night. In another column will be found a report of his remarks, sent by telegraph from our own correspondent.

The Exhibition Building in Prince Alfred Park presented an unusually brilliant appearance on Thursday evening, when the Mercantile Rowing Club gave their annual ball. The popularity of the Club was evidenced by the large gathering, and their efforts for the entertainment of their visitors fully deserved the general support awarded. The decorations of the large hall were beautiful, appropriate, and effective; at the north and the Royal Arms formed the centre of the decorations, the trophy of the club being placed in the illuminated by a large star of gold jets; opposite, the Arms of New South Wales were similarly placed, while the flags of the principal Rowing Clubs were arranged on either side. The fountain was tastefully surrounded by evergreens and flowers, long garlands stretched from the floor to the edge of the vase, from which in cascades of rainbow tints as they caught the rays from the brilliant illumination above. Each of the pillars supporting the gallery was wreathed with evergreen, which seemed to grow from elegant half-basketed, scented camellias; above each of these brackets were surrounded by laurel-bond medallions, with their ground bearing, "M. R. C." in scarlet, from which hung a national flag, emblematic of the fame and extent of the club. A pair of scrolls supported large flags tastefully draped on either side. The outer row of pillars formed the boundary of the ball-room, which was filled up by seating some of the ladies and gentlemen (the Club ladies) in the centre with a carpeted space afforded accommodation for the chaperones and just for the dancers in the brief interval.

A VERY elaborate selection of samples of wool from the prize fleeces at the late International Exhibition at London has just been made up by the Secretary of the Agricultural Society of New South Wales for transmission to the Chamber of Commerce of Berlin, in terms of a request from the German Government, for the purpose of ascertaining in their character, as those, from the various colonies, showing a marked type have been especially picked out. A schedule of an explanatory nature accompanies the parcel, which is very neatly made up in portfolio form.

A MEETING was held on Thursday last by the committee appointed to draft a constitution and prepare the necessary rules for the formation of an institution among the mercantile community, to provide pecuniary assistance to members out of employment; to assist in the maintenance of widows and children of deceased members who may be in a state of destitution; to secure medical aid and assistance to members or their families in cases of illness; and to provide for the relief of the following only are eligible—warehousemen, commercial travellers, accountants, or clerks in mercantile offices, or such other capacity as shall be deemed consistent with the dignity of the society. While the primary aim of the association is to aid those members and their families who are in a state of destitution, nevertheless, by way provision in the proposed laws, solvent members can participate in the benefits to be derived without encroaching on the funds of the association, it being

The Cosmos Express learns that at Nimitybelle Sunday night, no less than two feet of snow fell. It is exciting in that part of the district as it is imagined when Mr. Lang, of Nimitybelle, has lost out of 1000 sheep, which is but one out of number instances. The mail horses travelling to Bombala had their fetlocks terribly lacerated with the frost snow, and their tracks of blood can be traced for miles on the road. At Myalla, Coonang, Grampy's, Kilmore, and Dangleong the snow is still deep, and sheep are suffering dreadfully.

Hoffmann and party have taken up a claim near a good-looking reef that also has been found on Deitchel's land, in Lower Temors, but it has not been proved; and a number of small parties are prospecting out there. A number of parties specializing in shales are working in the area. The first gold was sold for $100 a day. A half-share in the Golden Gate was sold for $100. This claim is near the Golden Gate. Another claim near the Golden Gate was sold to a party of Bathurst, for £100; and a half-share in the Golden Gate itself was offered for $800. THE PARLIAMENT OF VICTORIA.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

MELBOURNE, FRIDAY.

The Speaker presented to the Governor this morning, and was formally congratulated. In the Assembly, this evening, as soon as the Speaker took the chair, Mr. Service moved that the House do not adjourn. This was put and negatived. At this time the Opposition benches were crowded, and there were only about a dozen on the Ministerial benches. Mr. Berry then submitted his non-confidence motion. Mr. Service supported it, and he quoted from "May" and other authorities to show that it was the prerogative of the Crown to open Parliament and until then they could not proceed to business. Mr. Berry replied that the verdict of the country having been given Ministers should no longer delay, and it was not competent for them to give advice. It would be useless to wait till Tuesday to give advice. It would be carried out, not a minute of which would be carried out. Mr. Wrixon submitted that the Governor's speech was delivered by him that he ought not to have followed the advice of his constitutional advisers. Messrs. Gorman and McKinnon held that the Governor's speech was in anything but good taste. Mr. Wrixon also submitted that it raised the question whether, when the vote was presented to the Governor, he would be entitled to act on it as passed. Professor Thomas supported Mr. Berry's position, and Mr. Billies, in a good speech, challenged anyone to show that a precedent existed for the course now being followed. After further discussion, the Speaker ruled that Mr. Berry's motion was in order, and it was then put and carried without division. Most of the Ministerials left the House this evening, adjourned till Tuesday. There is evidently a great middle made by the Opposition, out of which they cannot easily get their way. Mr. Berry's motion, instead of being for an address to the Governor, is a single affirmatory resolution, and the Governor can be presented to him in its present shape. Mr. Berry thinks that the Governor should bring it under his Excellency's notice; but Ministers, having pointed out the wrongdoing, think otherwise, and so the matter stands. The Government will probably resign on Monday.

At a caucus meeting of the Opposition held to-day Sir John O'Shanassy was present, but the proceedings were kept very quiet.

DESTRUCTION OF THE VICTORIA THEATRE.

Yesterday morning nothing but the bare and blackened walls and some crumbling debris remained to mark the place where once stood the old Victoria Theatre. From the late entrance to the dress circle to the high vaulted ceiling, the building from adjacent premises there is nothing but a mass of indistinguishable rubbish. The fire raged fiercely until after 2 o'clock a.m., constantly threatening up to that hour to envelop in its greedy grasp the shops and buildings on every side. The men who had been engaged fighting the flames, though they worked without the aid of systematic guidance, struggled bravely, and well, and at about the hour mentioned had removed every fear of any further spread of the conflagration, although they could scarcely check the destruction of property, under the plea of saving it, engaged in by officious bystanders. It is to be feared that outside of the theatre, the whole of the worst destruction, more damage was done by these self-constituted managers than by even the ravages of fire and water combined.

It appears that no insurance could be effected on the theatre, and that Mr. John Bennett, his Honor Judge Joseph, and Messrs. Moore in England will be very heavy losers by its destruction. The whole of the scenery, properties, library, wardrobe, and other effects in the building have been destroyed, together with some goods recently imported by the late owner, and the fittings and apparatus of Mr. Cane, the photographer, carrying on business in the vestibule of the theatre, who is a total loss. Mrs. Spencer's property is insured in the North German Company for £750, but her loss is scarcely covered. Mr. W. H. Reid, the small theatre manager, who has been in the theatre since its opening, has suffered considerably, but he is insured in the N.Z. Company for £2000; Mr. W. B. Campbell is insured in the City Mutual Company for £500, but he estimates his loss at about £2000; Messrs. P. E. Reynolds, Hans Anderson, and George Collins, who were considerably, were also insured in some offices, but it could not be ascertained whether they were covered or not.

The City Engineer, Mr. Trevor Jones, informs us that there was an abundance of water at the fire on Thursday night, and that the pressure was greater than has ever been obtained on a similar occasion. If this was the case, then the appliances for making a rapid use of it must have been in a state of readiness, as it was not till some time after the engines had been at work for some time that the water was allowed to be used. It is not till some time after the engines had been at work for some time that the water was allowed to be used. It is not till some time after the engines had been at work for some time that the water was allowed to be used.

The Victoria Theatre was the oldest Theatre of the Colony, if not in the whole of the colonies, the only one that at all approaches it in being the Theatre of the Colony. It was built in 1835, and was the first Theatre in the Colony, for so long ago as 1835 a Theatre of the Colony was erected in our city, and opened on January 16 of that year, under the management of Mr. Sparrow. The plays produced on the occasion were "The Revenge," a tragedy, by Dr. Young, and as an after piece "The Hotel." SOCIAL AFFAIRS IN ENGLAND.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

LONDON, JUNE 4.

Next week is Ascot week, and twenty-four hours ago all promised well for the time-honoured race meeting on the royal heath. But the telegram in last night's papers, announcing the death of the Empress of Russia, completely altered the prospect, for the Court goes into mourning forthwith, and Lady Grosvenor and Mrs. Ponsonby de Tomkyns will have to forego the felicity of running the lovely costumes which have been exercising the brains and fingers of the millions for weeks past. Only those who have visited Ascot can realize how completely the scene is metamorphosed by the prevalence of sombre and subdued shades, in place of the brilliant colouring which would otherwise be the characteristic feature of the groups on sand and lawn. The Princess and Princesses, who will now be seen in their mourning, had taken Titania Park for the week, but whether there will now be any state visit is very doubtful.

The Queen and Princess of Wales are at Balmoral, enjoying their annual spring visit to the Highlands. The Prince and Princess of Wales have been very busy. They paid a pleasant visit to Cornwall the week before last, when the prince laid the foundation-stone of the new Cathedral at Truro. They were the guests of Lord Palmouth at Trocadero Castle, and enjoyed very picturesque water-party up the Fal, while, in point of beauty, may almost be said to rival our English Rhine. The Dart, Truro was, of course, en fête, and seldom has a country town—about to bud into a city, I presume—been more beautifully decorated in honour of a royal visit. The Duke of Edinburgh has finished his relief work of the Irish coast, and is in the command of the squadron of ironclads now mustering in the Channel for the annual training cruise of the Coastguardmen. The Duchess of Connaught, whose pretty face and charming manners are making her very popular, is already beginning to do some of the work which in the allotted portion of the Irish family, has shown that she can take true interest in the sick and suffering at our large hospitals. The Duke has been gazetted Colonel-in-Chief of the Rifle Brigade, and the Prince of Wales has had the command given him of the cavalry regiments of the Household Brigade, both these appointments being the Duke's birthday honours.

The annual series of state concerts and balls is now in progress, but the death of the Empress of Russia will very materially affect the brilliancy of a season which was of better promise than any for the past four years.

The Bechoats is undergoing certain necessary repairs, and is then to proceed on a lengthened cruise, which is said to be likely to extend to Australia waters. So that Prince George may see a little of the world. His elder brother is to join the Royal Military College for a course of military instruction, after which he will probably be gazetted to the 1st Life Guards.

BRUNKER and WOLFE have received instructions from George A. Single, Esq., to sell by auction, at the Mill of Commerce, Sydney, on WEDNESDAY, the 18th AUGUST, at 12 o'clock.

The well-known
WERISS CALLEN STATION.
now in the occupation of the proprietor, G. A. Single.

Eq., and without exception the most desirable Pasture property submitted to the public for many years. It adjoins, and is not the same as, the country as the famous Whittaker Run, and its fattening capacities cannot possibly be excelled.

The property embraces an area of about 12,000 Acres, viz., 1,000 acres of freedom land, 1,000 ditto C. F. land, judiciously selected and completed, and 10,000 acres (more or less) of leased Crown Lands, and is well and substantially improved.

THE IMPROVEMENTS:

which are repine in every particular, and erected on the freehold land, and consist of a large and commodious, and comfortable dwelling-house, containing 13 rooms, kitchen, and servants' room, laundry, stable with box boxes, four cow, couch-house, harness room, etc., all fully fitted up with hardware and stings, and a large and commodious barn, and an orchard well-stocked with fruit trees of the choicest kinds. The premises are homesteaded and permanently supplied with water from a never-failing well. The main building is a two-story structure, with a well kept and a main building. There is also a first-class paddock, containing about 30 acres, extending and commanding a frontage to Werles Creek, a horse paddock at the rear of the premises.

STOCKYARD CAPABLE OF HOLDING 2000 HEAD OF CATTLE.

THE WOOL AND SHEARING SHEDS are about 100 feet long and 20 feet wide, to which is a cultivation paddock, containing 10 acres (more or less).

THE FREEHOLD AND CONDITIONALLY PURCHASED LAND is inclosed by a substantial 3-railed fence, nearly new, subdivided into paddocks, fronting Werles Creek.

This truly magnificent property occupies an unparalleled position. The homestead is only one mile from the railway station, which forms the junction of the Great Northern line with Tasworth and Gunnedah, consequently within easy reach of the metropolis; and possesses the advantage of telegraphic and postal communications. As a depot for stock, or fattening estate, the site is unquestionably one of the most desirable; surrounded by the most favourable facilities, exempt from intrusion, approximately to be reckoned at 1000 acres, which point is a largely increased prospective value, render its purchase as an investment sound and permanently operative; and to a person in quest of an easily managed snug, comfortably arranged, handsome residence, and productive of a good income, which will be found to stand pre-eminent; and may justly and confidently be termed the gem of the far-famed Liverpool Plains district.

In the Estate of the late W. B. CHRISTIAN, Esq.

PITT, SON, and RADGERY have been instructed by the Executors of the above Estate to sell by public auction at the Exchange Room, Sydney, on WEDNESDAY, the 15th July next

Those magnificent cattle-stall properties—

1. "Willagie," with about 1500 head of well-bred cattle.
2. "Carrivilla," with about 1500 ditto
3. "Porphyry," with about 5000 ditto ditto
4. "Kiln Grove," with about 4500 ditto ditto together with the houses, stores, belongings, &c.

The above properties are situated on 160 acres near Roobhampton and near Broadwood, and comprise an immense area of first-class grazing country, quite free from scrub, and admitted as being equal to anything in Queensland.

There is also a large number of large stone flats and extensive

[illegible]

There are a large number of fattening bullocks on the coast, and the purchaser will have an immediate return from the sale with the prospect of a large profit. The value of such stock is not so much in the value of such fattening properties as in the immediate value of a shipping port will be very greatly enhanced.

Being for immediate sale, the agents can with confidence recommend them to the attention of those desiring to go and settle, for such an opportunity of securing such quantities of fatted stock for country seldom occurs.

Any other particulars, terms, &c., can be had on application to the agents,
